THE CONVENTION IN MANCHESTER.

The Proceedings Harmonious, and Nominees Given Hearty Endorsement-Chairman Ellyson Makes s Speech-Other South-Side Items.

Messrs. Harry B, Owen, of Manchester, and Robert G. Wood were yesterday nominated by the Democrats to represent the city of Manchester and the county of Chesterfield in the lower branch of the next General Assembly.

The convention was held in Leader Hall, Manchester, lasted for three and a half hours, and the proceedings were marked by the utmost good feeling and There were four candidates, but the nominations were made on the first ballot. Both the nominees and their defeated contestants made speeches, and State Chairman Ellyson made a brief, carnest address on the importance of organization and work.

Though ordered for 10:39 o'clock, the convention was two hours late in getting down to business. The delegates who arrived early spent the morning hours in private caucus meetings and "seeing" just where their neighbors Among those not members of stood. the convention, but interested in the proceedings, who occupied seats in the hall, were noticed Hon, J. Taylor Ellyson, chairman of the State Central Committee; Mr. Frank T. Crump, Captain James R. Werth, Congressman John Lamb; Captain Carter Harrison, of Powhatan; Chairman E. L. C. Scott, of the Third Congressional District; Judges William I. Clopton and John H. Ingram, of Manchester, and Mr. D. L. Pulliam, Superintendent of the city schools.

City Chairman Lawrence P. Pool, of Manchester, called the body to order. On the platform besides Mr. Pool, were Mr. Phil. V. Cogbill, county chairman, Chesterfield; Captain Lamb, and Mr. Ellyson. Mr. Pooi's speech was short. greeted the delegates cordially, gay a welcome to the visitors, and declared the body ready to organize and proceed to business. Mr. Wills Moore, of Ches terfield, was made temporary chairman and Mr. F. H. Fitzgerald, of Manchester chairman. secretary. The chairman, in assuming that position, expressed his appreciation of the honor conferred upon him. CHAIRMAN ELLYSON SPEAKS.

Before the delegations retired to select members of the committees State-Chair-man Ellyson was called upon for a speech and responded briefly. He did not come into the convention, he said, to assume any part in deciding who of the Democrats of the district would best sent the people of the party in the House of Delegates—that should be determined the convention itself-but he wanted above all things else, to see that the Democratic nominees, whoever they might be, won a giorious victory. Mr. Ellyson urged a strong organization from the start, and declared that the fight in district would need all true Demourge individual work. "I can find," he, "ten who are willing to speak to every one who is willing to take the city square by square and do the drudgery of individual canvass. But," he conend tells; this is the only way every man is reached. The State ticket is strong, and is sure to win, and there is no reason why the House should not be solidly Democratic. But it will not be unless there is work. It is necessary to tell the people that it is important to fight hard for the supremacy in the House or they will forget it and relax in their effort."

Mr. Ellyson spoke carnestly for the individual canvasser, and paid a high tribute to this class of workers, of whom little is heard, and declared that while it had no heralding from the press, it was crowned ultimately with success. Speaking in connection with the indi-vidual worker, Mr. Ellyson said he would promise to do as much as any other man in the hall for the election of the candites the convention nominated, and challenged any man to outstrip him in and the effort he would make. This sentiment was received with much enthusiasm. In closing, Mr. Ellyson made a brief allusion love of the principles represented by the Democracy, and declared that no personal ambition could ever make him forget them. Come what may, he assert-ed that his allegiance to the party was ever true and strong.

The patriotic utterances of the Democratic leader and the wise coun gave were received with unmistakable signs of approval and commendation. MAKE-UP OF COMMITTEES.

When Mr. Ellyson had resumed his seat Mr. Owen renewed his motion for a recess, and the motion prevailed, On reconvening, the following committees were reported:

M. Harwood.

Two rooms in the rear of the convention hall were set aside for conferences for delegations of Powhatan and Chesterfield counties, respectively, and the little room in the rear of that of the Pow-tan delegation was devoted for a similar purpose on the part of the Manches-ter delegates.

Mr. Cox. of the Committee on Perma-mittee committee on Perma-ment Organization, reported that his com-mittee recommended the temporary chair-man and secretary as permanent chair-man and secretary. Adopted. RESOLUTIONS REPORTED.

The report of the Committee on Resolutions was then called for, and Mr Salle, for the committee, presented the following: Resolved, That we favor strict economy

n the administration of the government, and we instruct our representatives to use every effort reasonable and proper to reduce expenses.

Resolved, That we endorse the course of Hon. John W. Daniel and instruct our representatives to vote for his re election to the Senate' of the United

Another resolution adopted heartily en-dorses the ticket nominated and platform adopted at Roanoke. NOMINATIONS ARE MADE

There was a few moments' lull in the proceedings, then the chairman an-nounced that nominations for the House

Mr. B. M. Robertson rose at this point, and, followed with the closest attention, placed the name of Mr. Owen, the Manchester candidate, before the convention. Mr. Robertson said that on last Friday be made an agreement to present the name of a gentleman before the convention, and that to tulin 'that agreement he appeared before the body. The name of that wentleman was Herry B Owen.

Continuing with appropriate remarks Mr. Robertson urged the nomination of Ben. P. Owen, Jr., in an impas-Mr. sioned speech, in which he alluded to his course in the last General Assem-bly, and to the fight he made for his and State when yet a boy the "war between the States," pro-ed the name of Hon. R. G. Wood. One of the most striking addresses made before the convention, full of before the convention, full of and earnestness, was that in which Dr. W. H. Henning, of Powhatan, nominated Mr. James C. Jordan, of that county. Mr. J. E. Dance placed in nomination the fourth candidate, Mr. George E. Robertson, of Chesterfield, Mr. W. B. Cox, in a very appropriate address, seconded the nomination of Mr. Owen, and Mr. Pool neatly did a similar service for Wood. The nomination of Mr. Jordan was seconded by Mr. Finch,

ONE BALLOT NECESSARY.

Mr. Owen offered a resolution that those two candidates who received the highest number of the votes, provided that be a majority of the votes of the convention, be declared the nominees. This resolution prevailed, with the amendment offered by Dr. Henning tha the balloting be made by wards and precincts, and not by city and counties, The vote was then taken, with the following result: Chesterfield-Owen, 17; Wood, 11; Rohertson, 5; Jordan, 1. Manchester-Owen, 8; Wood, 8. Powhatan-Owen, 1; Wood, 2; Robert-on, 3; Jordan, 6. Totals-Owen, 26; Wood, 21; Robertson, 8; Jordan, 7.

The chairman thus announced the and declared Messrs, Owen and Wood the nominees of the convention. Mr. Finch, of Powhatan, then moved that the nomination be made unanimous, and this was done with a will. A committee was appointed to conduct the candidates to the hall, and they entered, coming the length of the hall amid great ap-

MR. OWEN'S ACCEPTANCE,

Mr. Owen was first introduced. "My heart throbs," he said, "with pride and gratitude at this mark of your confi-dence and trust. Loving my native city as I do, the fact of her people having chosen me to represent them, and also to represent the interests of the timehorored Democratic party in the legislative halls of Virginia—a goal worthy the ambition of her ablest sons—is to me a source of pardonable pride. "That this convention has endorsed "That this convention has endorsed her choice and awarded me the position of one of its standard-bearers, elicits my profound gratitude. That I was chosen over my distinguished competitor (not opponent), a man who has ong been my warm, personal friend, and who has been an energetic Democrat, working in season and out of season, and chosen in a contest devoid acrimony and characterized by unparal-icled courtesy and good feeling, is gratifying in the extreme. My admiration for my late competitor cannot be

Mr. Owen spoke in highest terms of Mr. Robertson, and concluding, said that he was aware that an arduous campaign awaited the nominees of the convention. "But," continued he, "I bespeak for the Democrats of this district such activity and earnestness as will roll up a jority of which we may be proud. This is neither time or season to discuss the general issues of this campaign, so, in the language of Judge Gregory, when fattened by the gallant Lamb at Chesterfield Courthouse, 'Til see you about that next court-day,'

"Again, I thank you for the trust you have reposed in me, and I assure you one of the greatest pleasures coming from the position will be the opportunity to east my ballot for that great tribune eloquent patriot, and statesman, John W. Daniel."

OTHER SPEECHES MADE.

Amid the great applause this utterance and others elicited Mr. Owen resumed his seat.

Mr. Wood followed Mr. Owen then Messrs. Jordan and G. E. Robert son, the defeated candidates, both of whom made excellent speeches, in which they declared their unalterable determi nation to support the nominees upon the Democratic ticket. Loud calls also brought Mr. B. M.

Robertson to the rostrum, and he, too declared his intention to strike from the shoulder a blow such that, if his strength could win for his party, the flag of a glorious victory would, on the of November, be unfurled. The convention then adjourned.

Richmond has just cause to feel proud her educational institutions. rank high, and are attended by young men and young ladies from almost all parts of America. With unabated deter mination to keep up their standard of excellence, the various schools and col leges of the city are entering upon their sessions for 1897-1898, and so far the out look is most gratifying so far as the year's work is concerned.

At 9 o'clock this morning the fall ses sion at Richmond College commences Nearly all the professors are in the city and will be at their respective posts when the college books are open. But this is not the most significant fact in connection with the opening of the school, for 125 students have arrived already, an most of them matriculated yesterday. These students come from fifteen differ ent States, there being a larger represen tation from the North than the college has ever known in the past. A particu larly large delegation of young men came down from New Jersey to attend the coilege, and President Boatwright said late last night that the prospects for the school this year were never brighter, and that everything pointed to the most successful session in the college's history.

Professor Mitchell, who has been on an extended trip through the South since his return from Europe, will reach the city this evening, bringing with him a large utingent of students. Dr. Thomas also returns to-night from Warrenton, The College Law School opens > NORFOLK, VA., September 22 .- (Special.)-The West Indian hurricane, now prevailing off this coast, is the severest storm experienced here since the cyclone of last fall. No damage has been done in the city, but along the coast the full serverity of the gale is felt, Already news of shipping disasters is coming in. Hampton Roads is crowded with sailing craft of all kind seeking a haven, and many steamships are also storm-bound. The big French bark Caroline, from Jamaica to Havre, put in the cape today, leaking badly and in distress.

> LOSS OF THE ARMINGTON. The most serious disaster thus far, is the less of the four-masted steam schooner Walker Armington, from Balimore to Providence, laden with 1,414 ons of coal. She sunk off Middle Ground, on Thimble Light Shoals, at 10:30 clock this morning. The Armington left Baltimore Tuesday evening, and had an uneventful voyage down until she passed Back River Light, when it was discovered that she was leaking seriously. She was even then half full of water, and although the crew manned the pumps and worked with the energy of despair, the water in hold grew steadily deeper, and finally Captain Cumming decided that in order to save the lives of his crew of nine men he would have to abandon the schooner. They took to the yawi-boat and rode en the end of a long line attached to the ship until she sank in five and a half fathoms. They then pulled for land and were taken aboard a passing schooner and brought to this port. PROBABLY A TOTAL WRECK. The Armington will probably prove a total wreck. She lies on the edge of the channel, and if not promptly removed, is a serious menace to all bay shipping. The same vessel was ashore for several ecks last winter off the Virginia coast The Walker Armington was built at Bath, Me., in 1883. She originally had auxiliary engines of nominal 175 horseower, but these were removed at the local ship-yard last May. She had a gross tonnage of 913 tons, the net being 771 tons. She was 178 feet long, 38 feet beam, and is feet deep. Her home port was Rockland, Me.

WYTHEVILLE, VA., September 22.-Special.)-An emory wheel burst at the bert A. Moore Machine- and Foundry-Works, in this place, this morning at II o'clock, killing Robert A. Moore, the manager, and breaking the leg of Adam Sales, a colored employee of the works. The wheel flew in three pieces, the largest piece striking and crushing Mr. Moore's face and head into an unrecognizable mass, and spattering brains, small pieces of flesh and bone over the waits, floor, of flesh and bone over the wans, noor, and roof of the works.

The negro's leg will have to be amputated. The other employees of the works escaped uninjured, though the engineer made an exceedingly narrow escape, a large section of the wheel going through the walls, striking his engine, and falling at his feet. Moore was about 35 years old. He was married and leaves a widow and five small children. He will be buried to-morrow by the Masons and Odd-Feliows.

Mr. Alley Explains His Remarks. Mr. Dan. Alley, who made a speech at the Lamb Republican meeting on Tuesday night, and who was reported as having "abused the Democrats," called at the Dispatch office yesterday, and explained Dispatch office yesterday, and explained that he meant no reflection upon the Democrats of this city. He has been a tax-payer here for forty years, was a member of Pickett's Division, and with such a record he says he would not like to abuse his fellow-citizens.

Mr. Henry Flegenheimer, who was chosen by Tuesday night's meeting as a delegate to the Lynchburg convention, says the use of his name was entirely unauthorized. He says he has no desire to mingle in politics, being interested only in the performance of his duties as Clerk of the United States Commissioner's Court.

Colgan Cigarette Machine Tested.

A full and satisfactory test of the work of the Colgan cigarette-machine was made yesterday at Oliver's old factory, on Brook avenue, before the officers, stockholders, and friends of the company owning it. It showed a capacity of 140,000 paper cigarettes per day of ten hours. The construction is simple, and the work done all in plain sight.
